Objective
The URS Target Date 2050 Fund is designed for an investor planning to retire and begin withdrawing funds within a few years of 2050 (the target date). The Fund seeks to provide growth, income, and conservation of principal to varying degrees depending on its proximity to the target date.

Strategy
The Fund invests in a diversified mix of asset classes consisting of stocks, bonds, real estate, and commodities. The Fund will gradually adjust its mix of asset classes over time to become more conservatively invested. These periodic adjustments will result in a gradual change in asset allocation, where the allocation to stocks is greatest when farthest away from retirement and is reduced as retirement approaches and passes.

Target Allocation and Fund Rebalance

The Target Date 2050 Fund will be reviewed at least quarterly to determine if a rebalance is required. Any asset class (e.g. Large Cap Index Fund, International Bonds, U.S. REITs, etc.) outside of its target range at the time of the review will be rebalanced to its target. The chart above shows the target allocation and range of each asset class.

Benchmark

The performance of the Target Date 2050 Fund is evaluated relative to a market index known as a benchmark. The custom benchmark for the Target Date 2050 Fund is called the Target Date 2050 Index. Because the Target Date 2050 Fund is a portfolio of different asset classes, the Target Date 2050 Index is a portfolio of benchmarks related to each asset class. The composition of the Target Date 2050 Index is shown in the chart above. The benchmark index is not available for investment and does not reflect investment costs.

Principal Risks of Investing

You could lose money by investing in this fund, and this fund could underperform other investments. This fund’s performance could be affected by:

Interest Rate Risk: Bond prices may decline due to rising interest rates. Bonds with longer maturities tend to have higher yields and are generally subject to potentially greater volatility than those with shorter maturities and lower yields.

Credit Risk: A bond’s price may decline due to deterioration in the issuer’s financial condition, or the issuer may fail to repay interest and/or principal in a timely manner.

Call Risk: During periods of falling interest rates, issuers of callable bonds may repay securities that have higher interest rates before maturity. This could cause a fund to lose potential price appreciation if it reinvests the proceeds during periods of lower interest rates.

Mortgage and Asset-backed Securities Risk: Early repayment of principal (e.g., prepayment of principal due to sale of the underlying property, refinancing, or foreclosure) of mortgage-related securities (or other callable securities) exposes this fund to a potential loss on any premium to face value paid and to a lower rate of return upon reinvestment of principal. In addition, changes in the rate of prepayment also affect the price and price volatility of a mortgage-related security.

Stock Market Risk: The value of the fund could decrease over short or long periods of time due to downturns in stock market conditions.

Liquidity Risk: The risk a particular security will be difficult to purchase or sell at the desired time and price.

Equity Risk: Equity securities (stocks) are subject to broad changes in value and are generally more volatile than other asset classes.

Passive Investment Risk: Investments tied to an index are not actively managed, and will not take defensive positions during declining markets.

Management Risk: The investment strategy used by an active manager may fail to produce the intended results. There is no guarantee of the managers’ performance or that the investment will meet its objective.

Tracking Error Risk: The performance and underlying securities may deviate from the index the fund is tracking.

Country/Regional Risk: The risk a certain geographical region or country will face events that may negatively impact the value of securities purchased in that region. Examples of such events are: political turmoil, financial downturns, natural disasters, privatization of industry, etc.

Currency Risk: Foreign securities priced in U.S. dollars may decrease in value due to unfavorable changes in currency exchange rates.

Real Estate Risk: The risk that the fund will decline due to adverse developments affecting the real estate industry and real property values.

Commodity Risk: Commodities may subject an investor to greater volatility than traditional securities, such as stocks and bonds. The value of commodity-related investments may decline due to factors affecting a specific industry or commodity, such as: floods, drought, live stock disease, weather conditions, political events, embargoes, tariffs and regulatory developments.

Foreign Government Debt Risk: The risk that a foreign government issuing bonds will not be able or willing to repay the principal and/or interest when it comes due. Factors may include political, regulatory, currency, market, or economic developments.

Transfers

Participants are allowed to submit one transfer request (whether electronically, by fax, mail or hand delivered) for their current account balances every 7 days. This applies separately to each plan in which they participate — the 401(k), 457, Roth IRA and traditional IRA each constituting separate plans. In addition, individuals who transfer any or all of their current account between core investment options more often than once every 30 days will be charged a 2% administrative fee on amounts transferred. Each transfer, after being processed, will start a new 30-day period. The fees generated by this policy will be used to reduce the administrative expenses for all plan participants.

Transfer requests received at URS before the close of the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), generally 2:00 pm Mountain Time, will be transferred using that evening’s closing market values. Requests received after the close of the NYSE will be transferred using the next business day’s closing market values. On days of unusually heavy transfer activity, computer system failure, or other unforeseen circumstances, URS reserves the right to process transfers using the next available business day’s closing market values.
